REDLIGHT KILLING MAY LEAD TO BREAKING UP OF MORALS SQUAD

City Officials Frown at Shooting Affair—Morals Squad Member Cries "I Didn't Know They Were Officers"—Gleason In Protest.

Feeling ran high in the police department today over the killing of Detective Sergeant Stanley Birns, who was shot down in the old red-light district last night after a revolver battle with members of the morals squad.

There is an insistent rumor that Mayor Harrison and the civil service commission will take action in cleaning up the squad. Several surprising changes are intimated.

Last night's tragedy was due to the fear that gripped the hearts of the members of the morals squad when they imagined Officers Birns and John Sloop were attacking them.

When the smoke from the revolvers cleared away the following results were checked up:

The Dead.

Stanley J. Birns, 1848 North Western avenue, detective sergeant of detective bureau; a wife and three children survive him.

Wounded.

John Sloop, detective sergeant, Birns' working partner, wounded in thigh; removed to hospital.
